Joplin, MO — Great Plains Federal Credit Union has selected Brad Schneider to serve as its new Vice President of Information Technology. He was placed by DDJ Myers, the well-known executive search and leadership development firm.

"We're thrilled to welcome Brad to our leadership team," says James Wileman, CEO of Great Plains FCU. "With his experience and skills in enterprise security, strategic planning and successful project deployments, we're confident that Brad's leadership will continue advancing the credit union's technology vision by modernizing infrastructure and processes to better serve our members."

Schneider brings more than 20 years of demonstrated IT leadership experience to his new position. He previously served as Vice President of Information Security for Southwest Missouri Bank and has held various technology and security roles at G&A Partners and Leggett & Platt.

"I am excited about this opportunity to create and improve workflows, implement best practices, and ensure Great Plains FCU continues embracing modern, secure, efficient technology solutions that benefit their membership," says Brad Schneider, Vice President of Information Technology.

Schneider earned his Master of Science in computer science from Trinity College and University and his Bachelor of Science in computer science from Missouri Western State College.
