Alogent's Unify Platform Earns 2025 PayTech Awards Finalist Spot for “Best Consumer Payments System for Banks & FIs”

Peachtree Corners, GA, May 28, 2025 – Alogent \(@AlogentCorp\), a global software leader in the banking and financial services market, is proud to announce that Unify has been named a finalist in the 2025 PayTech Awards, Best Consumer Payments System for Banks & Financial Institutions category.

The PayTech Awards are a globally recognized program that celebrates excellence and innovation in the payments and financial technology sector. Judged by an independent panel of industry experts, this recognition highlights Unify's measurable impact, technological innovation, and user-focused design that redefines how banks and credit unions manage their item processing workflows.

“Unify was developed to address existing solution gaps and the need to modernize deposit automation, offering financial institutions a flexible, scalable platform that supports long-term growth,” said Ashish Bhatia, VP of Product Management, Alogent. “Unify drives operational efficiency, strengthens fraud prevention, and delivers real-time insights for smarter decision-making. As the payments landscape continues to evolve, Unify ensures our clients remain agile, secure, and ready for what's next.”

Unify is the only solution on the market that consolidates all item processing workflows into a single, centralized platform, seamlessly addressing deposit channels and back-office operations. Unlike traditional systems that rely on batch-level processing, Unify operates at the transaction level, enabling faster processing times, real-time visibility, and more responsive exception handling. Powered by a modern, cloud-native architecture and a single API, Unify enhances automation, improves data accessibility, and streamlines transaction processing across the institution.

Winners of the 2025 PayTech Awards will be announced at a ceremony in London later this year. For more information about Unify and Alogent's suite of solutions, visit alogent.com.
